NEW GIRL AT SCHOOL

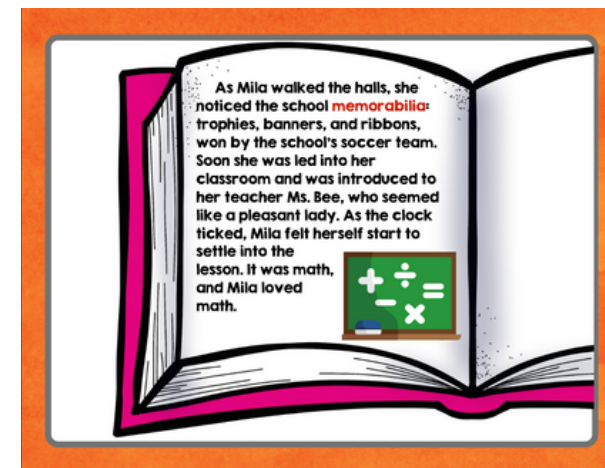

TIGERS

NEW GIRL AT SCHOOL

At exactly 8 o'clock in the morning, Mila arrived at her new school. Her mother kissed her goodbye and left. Slowly, Mila approached the school, and instantly she felt anxious. She was unsure and worried about what the day would bring.

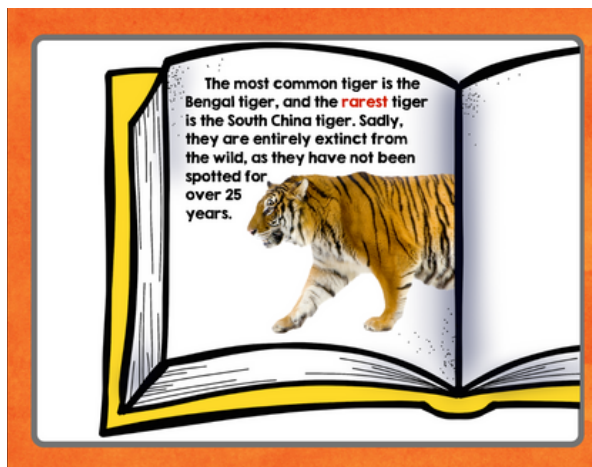

As Mila walked the halls, she noticed the school memorabilia: trophies, banners, and ribbons, won by the school's soccer team. Soon she was led into her classroom and was introduced to her teacher Ms. Bee, who seemed like a pleasant lady. As the clock ticked, Mila felt herself start to settle into the lesson. It was math, and Mila loved math.

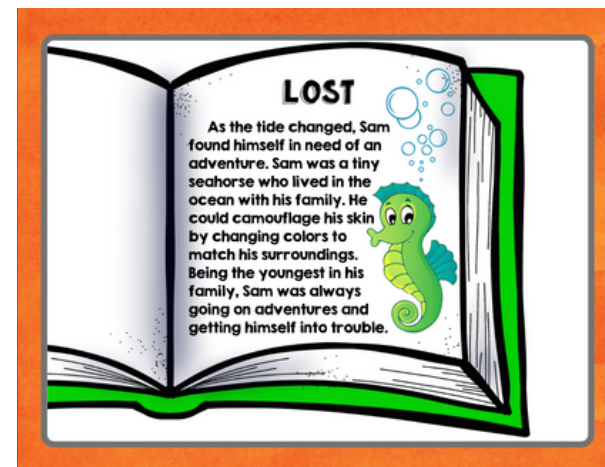

TIGERS

Belonging to the feline family, tigers are the largest cats in the world. They are covered in orange fur with black stripes, and have white stomachs. A tiger uses its stripes to stay camouflaged while hunting. Strangely, no tiger has the same set of stripes!

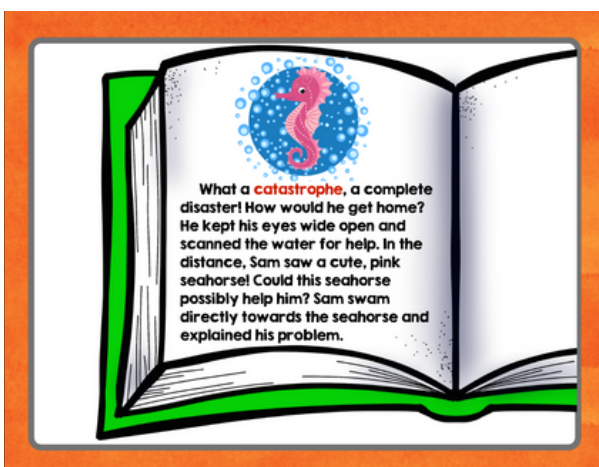

The most common tiger is the Bengal tiger, and the rarest tiger is the South China tiger. Sadly, they are entirely extinct from the wild, as they have not been spotted for over 25 years.

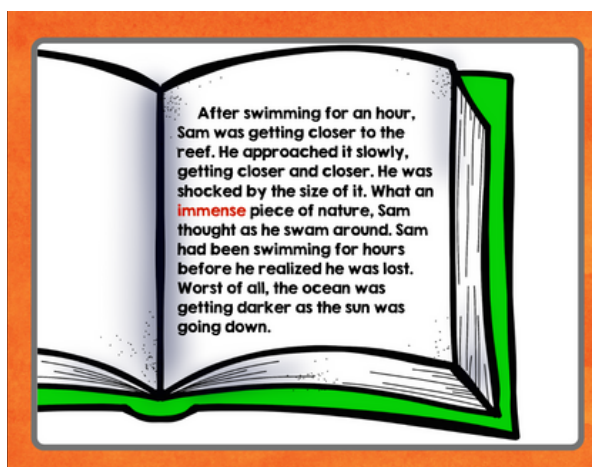

LOST

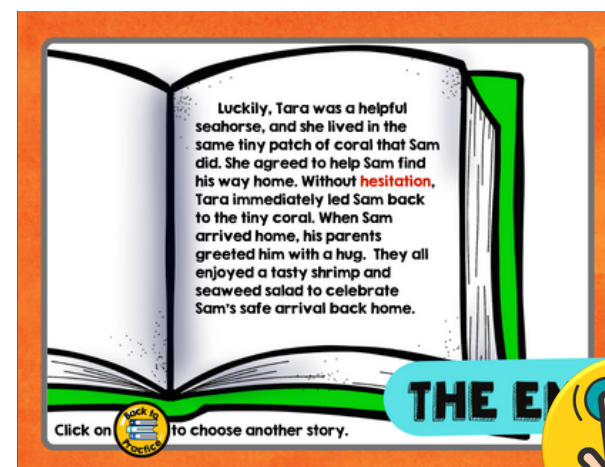

As the tide changed, Sam found himself in need of an adventure. Sam was a tiny seahorse who lived in the ocean with his family. He could camouflage his skin by changing colors to match his surroundings. Being the youngest in his family, Sam was always going on adventures and getting himself into trouble.

What a catastrophe, a complete disaster! How would he get home? He kept his eyes wide open and scanned the water for help. In the distance, Sam saw a cute, pink seahorse! Could this seahorse possibly help him? Sam swam directly towards the seahorse and explained his problem.

After swimming for an hour, Sam was getting closer to the reef. He approached it slowly, getting closer and closer. He was shocked by the size of it. What an immense piece of nature, Sam thought as he swam around. Sam had been swimming for hours before he realized he was lost. Worst of all, the ocean was getting darker as the sun was going down.

Luckily, Tara was a helpful seahorse, and she lived in the same tiny patch of coral that Sam did. She agreed to help Sam find his way home. Without hesitation, Tara immediately led Sam back to the tiny coral. When Sam arrived home, his parents greeted him with a hug. They all enjoyed a tasty shrimp and seaweed salad to celebrate Sam's safe arrival back home.
